BENEDICT, CHANDLER, AND LEOBETTER, EGYPTIAN STAFF MEMBERS ATTEND CONFERENCE

It rained all sorts of caravans in Champaign last week-end, the report comes from the Southern Illinois Normal University, where the Egyptian staff members of the 12th annual convention of the Illinois College Press Association met. The I.C.P.A. conference, attended by 125 staff members from 25 college newspapers, was sponsored by the School of Journalism at the University of Illinois, to aid Illinois colleges in bettering their publications.

The first general session, at which H. Orr, I.C.P.A. president, presided, was opened Friday morning with an address given by Fred S. Schmitt, director of the school of Journalism; Miss Bertha Vinton, adviser of publications, I.S.N.U.; Eddie Jacquin, managing editor of the Champaign News-Gazette; and Leslie McClure, I.C.P.A. director.

The most frequently mentioned subject in all of these talks was that of girls taking over the publication of men in both college and city newspapers. According to Eddie Jacquin, editor of the Champaign News-Gazette, in some cases, far superior work to the men. He says that women add a very pleasant touch to the publication of men in both college and city newspapers.

Mr. Jacquin has the following four characteristics of a good newspaper: 1. Love of the news. 2. Willingness and eagerness to work. 3. Ability to write (this can be taught) and 4. Personality.

In Fred Schmitt's opening address, he stated that it was a wartime duty to keep college publications going. "This is the time," he said, "when the men are expected to go by the men over seas. They want us to keep this permanent record for the future."

One of the most anticipated sessions of the conference was the "Typography and Makeup Clinic" at which the University of Illinois, showed lantern slides of the work of the Illinois College Press Association. Several points were pointed out in this lecture.

Immediately preceding the third general session, the editorial staff of the Illinois College Press Association, under the leadership of Betty Dugan, the Illinois College Press Association, discussed the editorial staff of the Illinois College Press Association.

Before the last business session, the Illinois College Press Association, discussed the editorial staff of the Illinois College Press Association.

The highlights of the evening were in the YMCA, at which Major Norman Iron of Champaign spoke on "The Beloved World."

Major Iron, formerly associate editor of the Champaign News-Gazette, is now in the Special Service in the Pacific.

BOHRD'S PAINTINGS FEATURED IN LADIES' HOME JOURNAL

Two paintings by Aaron Bohrod, former artist-in-residence of Southern Illinois Normal University, are featured with the article, "What I Saw at the South Sea," by Eleanor Roosevelt, in the February issue of the Ladies Home Journal.

The article is the account of Mrs. Roosevelt's recent trip to the Southwest Pacific. The two paintings of Mr. Bohrod's which are used to illustrate the article are one of Magnolia Bay, New Caledonia, and one of Field House on New Caledonia, where Mr. Bohrod was with the U. S. Army during their formation of the 1st and 2nd Marine Divisions.

Mr. Bohrod left the campus last March having been selected by the college government as one of the group of prominent American artists to be sent to war zones to paint actual battle scenes. Recently he has been in the Southwest Pacific in a display in his last entitled "Hendova, the Jungle," in which Mr. Bohrod shows the first Pacific landings in the New Caledonia Islands last summer and the fighting which followed.

Mr. Bohrod will return to the S.I.N.U. campus after their war to continue his work as artist-in-residence.

R. W. Brown Lectures On "A World We Can Create"

Mr. Rollo Walter Brown came to the campus on February 21 to give a very interesting address to the assembly on "A World We Can Create."

Mr. Brown spoke with much clarity and interest and he was so much more interested in having people think for themselves than in converting them to his own attitude of mind, that everyone who heard him was impressed with his special appeal. He has been called the most individual of individuals. He stated that this was because he believes that everyone, in like manner, should have an opportunity to be as much as is possible.

He began by pointing out that with all the things we do, we do not avoid it. It is something we do every day. It is something we do every day. It is something we do every day.

GRADUATE COUNCIL ADVISORS APPOINTED TEMPORARILY ONLY

The Graduate Council, of which William C. Stewart is president, has decided that advisors for the degree post-graduate work should be temporarily appointed. This was decided because the Registrar had received many letters concerning post-graduate work. Several of these letters now can be obtained by writing to the advisor for your field. These advisors welcome any inquiries that anyone interested in post-graduate work may have.

Each graduate student will have a temporary advisor for his field. Unless serious objections are made, these are the recommended appointments for advisors.

Patricia Travers, Third Concert Artist, Scores Solid Success

By M. BLEDSOE. Miss Patricia Travers was a pronounced success, Wednesday, March 1st, in Shryock Auditorium. From the moment that she first tucked her priceless instrument under her chin, it was quite evident that Patricia Travers is a master virtuoso of the violin. Continued applause from the audience brought forth four encores.

Attired as a sixteen-year-old of the court of Louis XV, Miss Travers wore a pink and blue gown of her own design. Lighting, however, tended to make the gown appear white. Strategically placed about the skirt were lovely flower clusters of French origin.

Miss Travers was fortunate indeed in the selection of her accompanist. Holland-born, Hendrik Eidt is a splendid technician and a fine musician in his own right. Rare indeed are those who execute well the waltzes of Chopin.

The following program was presented: "Pat of the House of Commons," but she also called "Travis, Shades of Andy Gump!" When she sat on her throne, Patricia Travers, her hair was styled in a bun, in a house that dates back to the Colonial period.

OBELISK UNDERWAY. The Obelisk, editor of the Obelisk, the bulk of the pictures of our annual have been sent to the engraver at this early date. The S.I.N.U. yearbook will probably be ready in early spring. The yearbook staff takes it for granted that it is necessary to keep a permanent record of the activities on the campus during war time.

Southern Salute

By MARIE BLEDSOE

Mail tell again! And here's what the boys are saying:

EMERSON JAMES T. CLINTON, ISS L.C. (U.S. No. 457, 57, Fleet Postoffice, New York, New York: "We Navy men are lucky to be on a ship like this instead of in the Marine, Army, or some place else. This little ship makes a fairly beautiful and comfortable home. We all have a good bed to sleep in every night, although a fellow may have rolled and roused around and been thrown into the deck eating worms. We have the pleasure of eating our meals hot and from tableware on a table where we can sit down, although a person may reach out for something and look up to suddenly find his elbow poked into the back of his head and half-way down the table. As those coming over the rail to hold my food on the table with one hand and eat with the other—just a slight rocking of the ship, as you can imagine. We have a nice dry place to keep our possessions. Any time I ever want to go any place I have everything that I have to wear right along with me on the ship—right convenient."

It all sounds swell, Jimmy, but if you hear from brave members of the Army or Marine Corps (who think their outfit is great stuff, too), don't blame me. May your good fortune continue.

WALLACE W. PRICE, 3777 28 Trucking Company, Fort Ord, California: "I have been receiving the EGYPTIAN and I try to read every word. The paper is one of the many links with the past. Officers we have known are captains, school, faculty members, books, studies, and other activities. How far away they seem and how much has gone since then. How the sands of life have sifted down. The sifting sands."

Presides: women, sports, and fun. Sophia: martial recreation and others. Juniors: collection of the amount of false knowledge you have accumulated and solved every due to the incompetence of your very instructors and a growing desire to help. Seniors: rounding out a purpose of life; finding out that the books of learning and the books of the sciences and humanities and that some of them are necessary to carve your niche in the outer world. And then, WAR!

The world changes, and you change. And yet life goes on. You must now become an individual of the team; you must coordinate your efforts. You must realize that the people at home are having difficulties and hardships, and you must be prepared. You think of the past and look to the future. You wonder of the changing sands, of the changing conditions, and of the changing opportunities. You, the sands shift.

Scholarship expressed, Walley... But just wait, my lad, until you've seen the shifting sands of the Navy—see HARRY YOUNG, PFC, ROBERT W. ALLEN, ASM, Navy Company "C" 28th ASTF, Berkeley, California: "The course here is quite different. I am learning American which is good as some authorities to be the most difficult of the Oriental. I am glad to have been taught more than to my help, look for food and diversions and in a general sort of way talk about the weather. The only saving feature is that it is written in European characters."

The University of California is quite big, so big in fact that it is a fifteen minute walk between the farthest extensions. The students are mostly girls, soldiers, and civilians in that order. We are housed in fraternity houses, and the life is very far removed from camp conditions. We get only a little free time, but that is made up for by the extra in which we may waste our time. San Francisco is only about a half hour's ride away so that is our objective on weekends.

Most of the students are from Eastern schools such as Yale, Princeton, Harvard, and Columbia. There are even one or two from Oxford. As far as I know there is no one from SOUTHERN here, although I have heard that there are some students in Stanford.

FROM THE FILES

Mr. Bommer: Oliver Read, you may tell the class about the Wheatstone Bridge.

Oliver Read: Why, the Wheatstone Bridge is a bridge over which the Romans hauled wheat and stone in crossing the Amazon river.

Mr. Bommer: It seems to me Mrs. Talpott has a great deal of soap.

Mr. Muzkin: "Well, you know she's so double faced."

Teacher: "Do you know Lincoln's Gettysburg address?"

Student: "I think he lived at the White House."

Bill: "Say, Jim, we are going to have a rotunda in our house."

Jim: "Pshaw, that's nothing; I heard my dad say we are going to have a mortgage on ours."

The antelope: "I sure had a hot time last night."

"Yeah."

"Stuck the wrong end of a cigarette in my mouth."

Louis Bid: "I'd like to see something cheap in a left hat."

Student: "Desired last year as the most improved team of the year."

Miss Provillion: "Tomorrow, in class, we shall take the life of Nathaniel Hawthorne, so come prepared."

Does she paint?

No, Powder?

No, Smoke?

No, Give me her name, my brother is studying for the military.

John: "Sir, your daughter has consented to become my wife."

His father: "Don't come to me for sympathy. What else can you expect? You're around every night for five weeks."

"Do you guarantee these cameras?"

"Absolutely, as I raised them from canvas seed."

You give me an awful pain in the neck said the convict to the lieutenant.

Miss Cox: "Is this sentence correct?" "I walk through the canyon."

James White: "It should be I walked through the canyon."

Miss Cox: "Why?"

"It's past tense."

James White: "I can't swim. Joe Hickey: When?"

James: "I ain't in water."

Neal Ellis: "I hear your new car goes like a top."

Frank: "It's a lie. I have just been to a sale."

Frank Armstrong: "Pardon's chemistry recitation? Take care, too Monday."

Chase: "Ha! Ha!"

SOUTHERN DOWNS DEKALB, CHARLESTON; AFTER IN I.A.C.

Southern brought the 1943-44 basketball season to a close last weekend by beating Charleston and DeKalb in two conferences.

One of the best of the tournament, the head clung hands several times and was tied at the half 16-16. Of course, Anthony Hall team was minus their star as Jim fractured her ankle in one of the earlier games. The second game was as much excitement in that the DeKalb-Siles and Tri-Siles are natural rivals within the ranks of the Greeks. But Pauline Potts, who was undoubtedly the star of the tournament, scored over half of the points made by her team, and the game was Tri-Siles all the way.

By the way! I might say here that I was very much surprised at the ability with which some of the girls played, particularly the forwards. They stole the show. From a strictly Pauline point of view, I still prefer my own basketball in that it is a much faster game and because I understand it much better. However, I have learned to appreciate more of the women's athletes, for up until the tournament, I was under the impression that basketball was the only sport in the W.A.A.

After a long, hard day on the road, the Southern team played their best game of the season, defeating a strong DeKalb quintet 25-14. All of the players, from DeKalb had come out of the large high schools around Charleston. One of such a team is Northern 6' 4" in each arm, from Charleston, who is playing his third year of college basketball. Rogan also came from a large school, West Rockford.

The game was close and exciting all the way. At half time the score was 12-12. Early in the second half the DeKalb team took an eight point lead and looked rather tough for the Southern. But soon after, Southern's Roger Rogan, who is playing his third year of college basketball, began to show his power. He scored 14 points and had once before defeated DeKalb 59-51.

Final standings of I.A.C.:

Team	W	L
Oak Normal	5	1
Southern	5	1
Charleston	4	4
DeKalb	4	4
Tri-Siles	4	5

HOW A MAN SEES IT

It's a long time now it has been my secret ambition to write a story on the Women's Athletic Union. So if the following has come this is strictly a matter of the more interesting details of our life. So if the following appears to be a little short of the exact details of a game, please remember that it is difficult to concentrate strictly on the game and not on the other diversions.

I was not present at the first of the tournament, but from the first time I saw the Tri-Siles play, I realized that I thought that the boys had the trophy in the bag of the letter that that. However, until the final game it appeared to be Anthony Hall's team.

Before the games yesterday afternoon the Anthony Hall girls were leading in points, but were met by the DeKalb in the final game 24-26. At the same time the Tri-Siles scored on the DeKalb-Siles to make the game.

Illinois mothers, as shown above, sometimes use a baby buggy to return empty deposit bottles. They should go back to the point of purchase at least once a week.

NEWS FROM EVERYWHERE

LOS ANGELES—A new united Russia, based on national factors, different from either Tsarist or Soviet Russia, is emerging, declares Dr. Robert J. Kerner, professor of history on the Berkeley campus of the University of California.

The second world war has decisively confirmed the trend of the Soviet Union away from an internationally directed communist ideology of world revolution. Like other great powers, based on national interest, Russia, in seeking to have friendly, though not necessarily communist, states on her frontiers.

To avoid isolation in which her security would be menaced, the Soviet Union stands for a hard and fast alliance with the United States, the British Commonwealth of Nations, and China, as a nucleus around which an effective international organization should be built.

DETROIT Mich.—Women dentists, as scarce now as women welders were before Pearl Harbor, will appear in the future in even increasing numbers. Professor Charles W. Cresser, chairman of the biomedical and preclinical committee at Wayne university, predicts.

Professor Cresser points out that of more than 1,000 dentists now practicing in Detroit, only 12 are women, and that throughout the country there are 35 men in the profession for every woman.

"The skill which women in war industries are displaying in the manipulation of small tools," said Professor Cresser, "gives ample evidence of their aptitude for at least one phase of dental work. Furthermore, we know that the few women who have entered the profession have proved exceptionally successful, particularly in the fields of children's dentistry and orthodontia."

Dr. Cresser also emphasized the existing need for Negro dentists, both male and female, and quoted Dr. M. Don Clawson, director of dental education at the nearby medical college. Clark university as saying that there are only 2,000 Negro dentists, very few of them women, serving the 12,000,000 Negroes in the United States.

ALBUQUERQUE, N. M.—Five eminent Mexican scholars, including the president of the National University of Mexico, will be awarded honorary doctor's degrees at the University of New Mexico's commencement Feb. 25, announced President James P. Zimmerman of UNM.

Personally invited at Mexico City by Dean C. P. Hammond of the University of New Mexico Graduate School on a trip there early in January, the five professors will be on the commencement platform with 130 graduating seniors and 25 who are scheduled to receive the master's degrees.

The men to receive the honorary degrees are Licenciado Rodolfo Brio Brister, president of the National University, who will be given the degree of doctor of laws; Jaime Torres Bodet, Mexico's minister of public education, doctor of letters; Alfonso Caso, director of the National Institute of Anthropology and History, doctor of sciences; Pablo Martinez del Rio, dean of the summer school of the National University, doctor of letters; and Francisco Villagrán Prado, dean of the baccalaureate college of the National University, doctor of laws.

Arrangements for the ceremonies are being completed by the university with the assistance from the United States embassy at Mexico City.

UNIVERSITY, Ala.—War has drained the colleges of most male students, but women still carry on campus traditions.

When Jaxton, hamper group for senior men at the University of Alabama, disbanded in 1943, its annual Jamboree, a parade of home, dance and campus beauty, seemed doomed.

Then Mortar Board, national honor society for senior women, stepped to the rescue—and Alabama students viewed Skits, in Skirts, the girls' version of the movie's show.

When Jaxton return to Alabama after it's all over, Mortar Boarders say, the Jamboree will take up where it left off.

2 Leading Mid-West Educators Praise Waves' Training Program

WAVES on the march at Hamilton College, New York.

The WAVES are not only doing vital win-the-war work but the expanding their gain is an important complement to their education, assert two of the Mid-West's leading educators—Dr. W. C. Coffey, president of the University of Minnesota, and Dr. John C. West, president of the University of North Dakota.

"If I had a daughter of my own and if she were properly qualified, I would be gratified if she should decide to join the WAVES," says Dr. Coffey.

It seems to me wise to take women into the armed forces for required services that they can handle quite as well or even better than men.

"Such a procedure is far better than taking men out of positions in defense industries and other civilian positions important in connection with the war and which are more or less difficult for women. After all, this is a total war, calling for the placement of each and every individual where he or she can contribute to greatest advantage. I believe that the war training program that the war training programs that have been established for women offer a real opportunity not only for service to the country but also for their own personal development."

"A Vital Service"

Commenting on the WAVES training program, Dr. West declares: "We are proud that so many women graduates of the University of North Dakota are serving their country in the uniform of the WAVES. We recognize that the training they receive is an important complement to their formal education, and that the work which they do is a vital service to their country in a time when such service is urgently needed. I heartily endorse this branch of service in the Navy, and I would be happy to lend my support to any program to recruit new members to carry on its great work."

The Navy Department has just issued a new booklet on the WAVES, free copies of which are available to young women at Navy Recruiting Stations or offices of Naval Officer Procurement.

THIS COLLEGE WORLD

Maybe it was New Year's Eve or maybe it was the uniform in blue, but one Michigan State coed is telling about the train trip she took from Chicago to Ann Arbor during the holidays. It was a lovely ride, she had a seat and in the next seat to her was a handsome marine lieutenant. Everything was perfect until she got off the train at Ann Arbor and discovered that she was in Jackson in stead!

"It was an old maid more useful on a farm than a wheelbarrow" was the subject in a recent debate at the University of Manitowish. The students differed about it by three votes.

A nickel for your thoughts:

One Spanish student at the University of Texas gives nickels to students in his beginning Spanish classes who give him correct answers to his questions.

Thursday, speaking in Spanish he approached a freshman: "Have you ever been to Venice?"

"Yes," she answered.

"Were you there in the 18th century?"

"When the girl answered in the affirmative again, she received a shiny new nickel. Which all goes to prove that the healthy Texas climate really makes for a long life."

QUOTABLE QUOTES

"The purpose of the Army Spaulding Training Program" is not confined entirely to the needs of the present war effort. Close examination will show that it also has a long-range objective—the development of the full benefits of the coming peace," said General Thomas A. Terry, commanding officer of the Second Service Command, to the first ASTP graduates at Princeton University.

"The most important message for this year, 1941, was heard by a small group of British and American correspondents at 1941 food in the history books. Said in vision Commanding General Eisenhower: "The only thing needed for us to win the European war is 1941 for every man and woman all the way from the front line to the remotest hamlet of our two countries to do his or her full duty." Let us not fail! . . . Brown and White, Leigh University.
